Virginia Giuffre's suicide note that she left for her children is revealed - as her diary says she was beaten by husband who made her a 'prisoner'

Virginia Giuffre, who led the fight to bring paedophile Jeffrey Epstein to justice and claimed she was twice trafficked to have sex with Prince Andrew, died by suicide aged 41 at her farm in western Australia in April. She had recently split from her husband of 22 years Robert, who it is now claimed beat her when she was pregnant and stopped her from seeing her children. The diary, which Ms Giuffre kept from the beginning of 2025, detailed her memories of her marriage breaking down as well as photos, texts and legal filings alleging Robert had been violent and abusive.
